CHRISTIAN CORE VALUES

Posted on March 24, 2006 by Eddie

Categories: Christian Life, Computing/Internet

The admirable Brian Russel of Real Meal Ministries has posted a short piece entitled A "New" Ethos. It's a super little article on the purpose of the Christian Church which picks up some of the themes that I developed in my sermons last weekend.

If I were stuck on a desert island and only allowed to visit five websites (perish the thought) Real Meal would certainly be among them. The Better Bibles Blog and BBC News would also be top choices. I'm not sure what the next ones would be, narrowing it down to another two would be far too difficult.