INTERVIEW: STEVE BELL

Posted on February 19, 2021 by Eddie

Steve Bell is a well known thinker, writer and speaker on mission. He has extensive on the ground experience in mission work as well as having led agencies and NGOs. In this interview he speaks about Islam, grace and his new book.

Category: Observations

Steve Bell is a missions analyst, trainer, writer and speaker. I've known him for a decade or so and he is one of those people who are simultaneously encouraging and challenging. He is the author of the Friendship First Course and Grace for Muslims, both of which are excellent resources for Christians interacting with people from an Islamic Background.

In this interview, I talked to Steve about his background and his approach to evangelism and his forthcoming book Mountains Move, which I am very much looking forward to. I'll review it as soon as I can get my hands on a copy.

This interview will be of interest to anyone ministering in the Islamic world or among diaspora communities in the UK.

My aim is to post an interview once every two weeks. I'm also considering releasing them as a podcast for those who would like to listen on the move and don't necessarily want to have to look at me. Can you let me know if this is something that would interest you. I aim to interview people from a variety of backgrounds who have things to say about mission and the world church.
