HOW MISSION HAPPENS

Posted on February 26, 2021 by Eddie

If a church is going to support world-mission, they need to start off by understanding what it looks like.
Category: Observations

How should a church get involved in supporting world mission? I answer this question in two videos. The first starts in Matthew 16 and then looks at the book of Acts to get a picture of what mission looked like in the New Testament era. The follow up (in a couple of weeks) will look at what mission support looks like in Pauls' letter to the Philippians.

I'm going to try and post a longer video on Friday mornings in the future. These will either be interviews with people interesting people involved in mission or world Christianity or talks by me (who is less interesting).

For those who don't want to stare at my face for half an hour, these will also be available as audio recordings. At some point, you should be able to subscribe to them as a podcast, but I'm waiting for a major fruit-based podcast provider to confirm that I exist. I'll post more in detail about the podcast when all of the details are available, but if you try searching for Kouyanet Podcast, you might find it.
