Five thirty in the morning; Southampton airport. Sue set off for her consuting trip to Madagascar. Her first flight is the short hop over to Paris and then she has a ten hour flight down to Antananarivo where she should arrive about midnight local time. Tomorrow, Saturday, she will be in Antananarivo all day, spending some time with her friend Nellie and then on Saturday she has a ten hour drive down to Fianarantsoa where she will be staying for the next two weeks, checking the translation of John's Gospel into the Tandrooy language. We don't know when she'll be able to get an internet link, but she is hoping to post on the blog by email, so keep watching this space.
