THE VICTORIOUS CHRISTIAN LIFE

Posted on September 24, 2021 by Eddie

If you think victory looks like a ticker-tape parade, steady success, your best life now, then I do not hold high hopes for the longevity of your spiritual journey.

This is the best thing on Christian discipleship that I've read in a long, long time. I was tempted just to cut and paste the whole post here, but that seems unfair.

> If we take the words of Jesus inÂ Revelation 2Â seriously, the victory is not the crown you get later, the reward for all you endured, no, victory is what you did to get the crown. Your faith â€“however small â€“ in the midst of despair, thatâ€™s victory. Your love for others â€“ when you felt unloved â€“ that was the victory. Your service, when you were burdened with depression or anxiety - that was victory.

> But it doesn'tÂ lookÂ like victory, it doesn'tÂ feelÂ like victory, it doesn'tÂ smellÂ like victory,Â but God brings triumph all the same.

Now, go away and read the whole thing. It is worth every second of your time.
