SPRINGTIME

Posted on April 27, 2006 by Eddie

Category: Observations

I have to say that I like our garden at this time of year. The phtograph doesn't really do it justice because the sun decided to go in just as I was taking it and my phone is not the world's greatest camera. I can't use our proper camera because Sue has taken it to Madagascar. The washing spoils the picture somewhat, but it does show that I'm keeping up with things!
One of the main reasons for this post is to point people to Sue's post below. If you receive emails telling you when this site is updated, you may have realised that I don't send an email for every post. I wanted to send an email about Sue's news, but as she emailed the post from Madagascar, there was no easy way to do it. There is a good bit of translation stuff at the bottom.