WHAT ON EARTH IS GOD DOING?

Posted on November 21, 2008 by Eddie

Category: Church: World

This looks like it might be worth attending:

> >The Bible promises that the earth would be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord as the waters cover the sea: yet we are living in an age in which church attendance seems to be falling dramatically, and respect for the Christian faith and institutions appears to be in free-fall. What is happening? Over the course of an evening we will see how God has been at work from the dawn of humanity until to day and we'll get a glimpse of why this is actually one of the most exciting times in the whole of history to be a Christian.

This Saturday at Widcombe Baptist Church in Bath.Â I promise I won't be too boring!