MORE TO READ!

Posted on December 17, 2008 by Eddie

Category: Reviews

I've recently made a couple of posts of links to mission and theological articles complaining that there is too much to read and not enough time to read. I've just come across another huge reading list, but this time it actually saves time. David Mays has posted a huge list of reviews of leadership and missions books here. You can read the reviews and then convince all your friends that you have read the books! (Actually, that would be dishonest, so don't do it). This is definitely a page to bookmark. You can also sign up for his weekly book review email.