TECHNICOLOUR AFRICAN PHOTOGRAPHS

Posted on July 6, 2009 by Eddie

Category: Africa

Global Voices Online is a great place to discover interesting blogs from around the world. Today, I came across an interview with Paul Sika an Abidjan based photographer who does amazing work. For someone who has lived in Abidjan the photographs are all very familiar, but with a fascinating twist. Read more here.