WHERE I'VE BEEN

Posted on August 30, 2006 by Eddie

Category: Observations

I just found an interesting site where you can make a map of the places you have visited. Despite travelling a fair bit, my map still shows that there are lots of bits of the world that I haven't visited. The next year should add four or five more countries.

create your own visited country map or write about it on the open travel guide