Facebook has many hidden dangers, beyond the obvious concern of using up time which could be better spent perusing Kouya Chronicle. However, I must admit that I've never thought of this one before - and trust that none of our readers will fall foul of it...

> The popular online social networking site Facebook helped lead to an alleged burglar's arrest after he stopped check his account on the victim's computer, but forgot to log out before leaving the home with two diamond rings. (read more)
