"Isn't it amazing that the God who made heaven and earth is willing to entrust his mission to people like us." Someone one said this in a meeting I was part of this morning. It's a familiar thought and I've said the same thing fairly often. This morning, however, I had a bit of an epiphany. It isn't at all amazing that the creator God involves us in his mission. After all, that is the precise reason he created the earth in the first place! As I posted on twitter

> God created this world so that we could work with him to announce his kingdom.
