IF YOU EVER WONDERED...

Posted on November 8, 2010 by Eddie

Categories: Computing/Internet, Observations

... why I write a blog, use twitter or try and do a podcast.

You can find the answer to your question and to many others in the interview that I did with Big Bible. Here, for example, are a few of my thoughts on the Lausanne congress.

> Youâ€™ve recently returned from the Lausanne conference â€“ what are the key messages that you came away from the event with?
>
> I must admit that I find it difficult to remember the details of many of the talks and presentations at the Lausanne Congress. There was just so much content that it all became a bit of a blur after the first day or two. I know that I really enjoyed some of the speakers, though I canâ€™t for the life of me remember why. When I get a bit of time, I need to go back and listen to a couple of the talks to remind myself why I thought they were so good. There are a couple of other talks that I found much less helpful, but I probably wonâ€™t go back to remind myself why that is so!