I'm not sure I can ever forgive the person who introduced me to StumbleUpon a web service which takes you to random web pages based on a series of criteria which you choose. I'veÂ found all sorts of interesting things in the past couple of days, including a page which gives you all sorts of useful Latin phrases which can be used in everyday life. Anyway, if I don't get much work done in the next few days, I know who to blame - and it isn't my own lack of discipline!

The Latin phrase? If you can read this, you are too educated.
