CONTINUAL TRANSLATION

Posted on April 10, 2007 by Eddie

Category: Bible Translation

Henry Neufeld has posted a fascinating little meditation which starts with the Easter message and ends with Bible translation. It's well worth a read.

> The disciples saw the empty tomb. They saw the risen Christ, but it was up to them to translate that message for the remainder of the world. The gospel commission calls on us to make disciples of all nations (Matthew 28:19). Now in order to make disciples of Jesus, we have to somehow present the message of Jesus and do so in a way that will be understood.