GROWING CHURCHES

Posted on April 25, 2007 by Sue

Categories: Africa, Church: World

I have a Google news alert set for Ivory Coast, so every time it gets a mention in the news somewhere I get an email giving me the link. More often than not it is an article mentioning one of the many Ivorian footballers who play for teams in the Premiership or in Europe; sometimes it is an article about the political situation in Ivory Coast and just occasionally it is an article on religion, like this one. With many churches dwindling in numbers in the West it is easy to forget how fast the church is growing in the Southern Hemisphere.