WE ARE GOING UP!

Posted on May 1, 2007 by Eddie

Category: Observations

It's not the normal stuff of this blog, but I can't resist a few words of congratulations to the lads on their promotion to the premiership. The turn around under Roy Keane has been truly amazing; well done to all concerned!

I understand that there is another team who play in red and white who may be in contention for a play-off place, but I don't know much about them, though some readers may be able to enlighten us. It's probably just as well that I'm not preaching this week - gloating from the pulpit is so ugly!