A BIT OF POETRY

Posted on July 20, 2012 by Eddie

Category: Observations

These lines from Gerard Manley Hopkins have been favourites of mine since my teenage years and I thought I'd reproduce them here. There is no great significance other than the fact that they express my sentiments far better than I ever could.

What would the world be, once bereft
Of wet and of wilderness? Let them be left,
O let them be left, wildness and wet;
Long live the weeds and the wilderness yet.

The picture is of me enjoying the wildness and wet on Skye.