AFRICAN CHRISTIANITY

Posted on October 15, 2012 by Eddie

Categories: Africa, Church: World

> Christianity is a Religion intended for and is suitable for every Race and Tribe of people on the face of the Globe. Acceptance of it was never intended by its Founder to denationalise anyÂ peopleÂ anf it is indeed its glory that every race of people may profess and practise it and imprint upon it its own native characteristics, give it a peculiar type among themselves without its losing anything of its virtue. And why should not there be an AfricanÂ ChristianityÂ as there has been a European and an Asiatic Christianity?

Rev, James Johnson (Holy Johnson) 1836-1917. Cited inÂ Translating the Message: The Missionary Impact on Culture by Lamin Sanneh p.144