I AM MORE THAN THE SUM OF MY GENES

Don't try and tell me I'm nothing more than a vehicle for passing on genes.

Well, that's it. Both of my sons are married off; my genes have made it to the next generation and look pretty much on course for the one after that. I suppose I might have a role in helping to nurture the succeeding generation ("looking after the grand-kids", is the technical term), but I no longer have much of a biological purpose on this planet.

So that's me done, then!

Except, there is a lot more to life than this. There are still mountains to climb, dogs to stroke, music to listen to, books to read and hours to while away in the company of my best friend. I am more than just the sum of my genes and as long as there is breath in my body, I will have a purpose; to enjoy creation and the friendship of those I love and to grow in love and appreciation of my creator.

Don't try and tell me I'm nothing more than a vehicle for passing on genes.
