LINGAMISH ON DEPENDENCY

Posted on November 26, 2007 by Eddie

Categories: Africa, Bible Translation

David Ker has just posted a very thoughtful short piece on issues surrounding aid to the developing world. He particularly looks at how this effects the Bible translation project he is working on. By the way, if you would be interested in supporting the Nyungwe translation project, you can sponsor the team for a day at the cost of $30 (less than fifteen pounds). More details here.