STEREOTYPES HARM DIGNITY

Posted on November 8, 2014 by Eddie

The uncomfortable message in this video is applicable to Christian mission as much as it is to the wider development world. There is a role for expat missionaries and volunteers in Africa, but that role is working alongside local people, under their leadership and responding to their realities. Not taking pre-packaged solutions from the West.
Category: Observations

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ymcflrj_rRc

Another amazing video from the people who brought youÂ Radi-aid: Africa for Norway.

The uncomfortable message in this video is applicable to Christian mission as much as it is to the wider development world. There is a role for expat missionaries and volunteers in Africa, but that role is working alongside local people, under their leadership and responding to their realities. Not taking pre-packaged solutions from the West.

Sometimes humour says things much more powerfully than a serious piece ever could.

If you can't see the video, you should be able to find itÂ here.