TAG

Posted on January 7, 2008 by Eddie

Category: Computing/Internet

Paul Merril has tagged me on his blog (Remember the Game of Tag - though we called it tiggy when I was a kid). The point of the tag is to: "look outside ourselves and bless, praise and pray for one blog friend. By participating in this endeavour we not only make the recipient of the blessing feel valued and appreciated, but we are having some fun too."

The rule is that we each have to Tag one other person, so I'm going to pass this on to Hamo of Backyard Missionary. I've never met Hamo, and probably won't do so this side of eternity (he lives in Australia). However, his blogging has inspired me and prompted hysterical laughter - sometimes in the same blog post! Hamo, if you are reading this, I took a few minutes of my siesta/blogging time to pray for you, your family and the church. All the best mate, and thanks!

While on the subject of blogging friends, I'll be visiting Rob and Lois Baker in Cotonou (Benin - another new country, woohoo) tomorrow.