WORDPRESS 2.5

Posted on March 29, 2008 by Eddie

Category: Computing/Internet

I've just upgraded my Wordpress installation to Version 2.5. The upgrade process was very smooth and the new administrative screens are rather nice - though it will take a while to get used to them. One really nice feature is the one touch upgrade feature for plugins. This is far better than having to download plugins to my laptop, unzip them and then transfer them to my server. So far everything seems to be working apart from Zemanta which I blogged about yesterday.