BLOG CHANGES

Posted on May 27, 2008 by Eddie

Category: Computing/Internet

As I couldn't think of anything useful to write today, I upgraded the blog template. I quite like this look, though the flash slide show at the top needs changing a little as it is off centre. I've also changed the plugin I was using for the slide show and picture gallery, which gives a much funkier look to our little gallery. I've moved the links from the sidebar to a separate page, freeing up a fair bit of real estate in the process. The side bar is now entirely widgetised which means that I don't have to type any more HTML when I change theme.