WORDLES

Not everyone likes the tag cloud that we have the sidebar of this blog: those who don't will probably not be impressed by Wordle which is a tool to turn any text into a graphic where the size of the word reflects its frequency in the text. This is from my post Is the Age of the Great Commission Over?

I can't actually think of a useful purpose for this tool, but it is pretty! A word of warning, you can't actually get it to generate a picture file - I had to do a print screen and edit for this.
