TEACHING PEOPLE TO MAKE FRIENDS

Posted on June 26, 2008 by Eddie

Category: Christian Life

Mark Sayers, has just posted another excellent and thoughtful piece. It's not very long, so you have no excuse not to read it - here is his conclusion:

> One of the missional roles of the church in the 21st century may be how to teach people again how to have actual friendships, that are long, deep and rewarding. The people of God may more and more find ourselves being prophetic simply because we are a community. Read More.