WORLD CHRISTIANITY

A short post linking to an excellent video.

If you wondered why there was no blog post yesterday, it's because I had an appointment at the dentist first thing in the morning, which is my normal blogging time. To compound that lack, today's post is going to be very short.

Please go and watch the video on this page, it lasts less than ten minutes and features one of my heroes, Professor Andrew Walls talking about world Christianity.

I would normally embed the video here, but for some reason the Edinburgh Centre for the Study of World Christianity make it impossible to do that.Â
